Lack Of Rainfall Causing Big Loss At Produce Farm; 250 Acres Of Spinach Dead

One of Monroe County's largest produce farms is suffering heavily with no rain to aid growing and with the intense heat taking its toll of laborers who are working continuously to save whatever crop they can.

Starkey Farms, at Long Pond, disclosed to The Daily Record that they have already lost 250 acres of spinach of their total season's acreage of 350. The farm land spans 700 acres altogether, with the emphasis on production placed on the spinach crop.

"This is the worst year we've had since 1946," the manager told The Record. Until this year the firm depended on rain water to moisten the ground. "You can bet we'll have a watering system in operation next year," the manager asserted.

Arthur Ilti, Monroe County farm agent, expressed hope that a good rain might save some of the corn and potato crop. Ilti said he's seen years when the corn crop looked hopeless without rain. "Then we had a good rain and it made a quick recovery," Ilti added.

But the potato crop is a different story. "It's possible rain might save some potatoes, but many farmers are hit hard," a few farmers told The Daily Record they were "forgetting" their potato crop this year, since it was almost impossible to salvage anything with the drought season holding on so long.

The West End of Monroe County appears about the hardest hit on potatoes. Lands there are parched badly and many farmers are hauling water on a "round-the-clock basis attempting to save what they can.

Brookheads Creek has been reduced to a small ribbon of trickling water, along with other streams in the county. Many of the smaller tributaries are perfectly dry, and even lakes are being depleted of their supply.

A Portland river bridge official said the Delaware River is dropping almost hourly there. Yesterday morning the reading was 22 inches below normal. By 4 p. m. it dropped another 10 inches.

In many spots in the river moss growths have been spotted and stones on the river bed are visible in various regions.

The forest fire situation remained well in hand yesterday, with no new outbreaks reported by District Forester E. C. Pyle, Stroudsburg.

Pyle pointed out that fire wardens must still maintain a "round-the-clock watch on the four old fires which occurred in various parts of the county last week. There is always the possibility that a sudden wind or outburst of sparks will ignite the adjoining unburned area.

Cousin Held In Shooting

Wilkes-Barre (AP) — The 33-year-old mother of three lay in critical condition in Pittston Hospital last night, the victim of a shooting which resulted in the arrest of her cousin, Leo J. Gregor, 35, of Plains Twp.

Louis G. Feldmann, Luzerne County district attorney, said Gregor and his cousin, Mrs. Regina Danowsky of Wyoming, had been seeing each other for the last four years and argued during a meeting Sunday night.

Feldmann quoted Mrs. Danowsky as saying that Gregor threatened to kill her.

"I leaped from the car, but he shot me in the back as I did so," she said at the hospital, where physicians are awaiting improvement in her condition before they remove a .32 caliber bullet lodged in her back.

Feldmann said Gregor is being held for arraignment on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Prisoner Escapes In Garbage Can

Bismarck, N. D. (AP) — A North Dakota state prison inmate rode to freedom yesterday in a garbage can.

Weldon Shore, 36, Minneapolis, serving a term for burglary, was in the container when it was hauled away from the prison by the garbage collector, a trusty. Shore sprinted away when the can was dumped a short distance from the prison. Last year Shore had a brief period of freedom when he escaped by cutting a hole in the prison roof.

Official 101.5 Recorded Here Humidity Up

Heat works an odd alchemy on newspaper reporters.

It makes them bubble over with kitchen adjectives—like boil, simmer, toast, fry, broil, melt, bake.

Up to a point, that is.

But after eight days of 90-plus temperatures the copy paper itself begins to look like wilted lettuce and the choicest superlatives sound dehydrated and dusty.

That's when there's nothing left but dry facts. Like these, which filtered in over a dehydrated telephone wire.

In Stroudsburg the mercury hit an official 101.5 degrees.

The humidity went up too—to 39 per cent.

The temperature in Stroudsburg for the past four days has been Friday 99.5; Saturday 100; Sunday 100; yesterday 101.5.

Up on the mountain yesterday it was hot too. At Mount Pocono Airport—92 degrees. On an unofficial shaded thermometer at Minisink Hills at 3:15 p.m. it was 100 on the button. In Saylorsburg at 6 p.m. it was still 92.

As for rainfall—what rainfall?

For the entire month of August the rainfall measured an official .97 inches.

What rain there was, said weather bureau observer Pierre Laks, Stroudsburg, fell early in the month.

There has been no measurable rain since August 9, he said.

Last night a Stroudsburg resident showed up with the incredible statement that he had driven his car through a rainstorm. But it occurred some distance the other side of Wind Gap and never touched Monroe County.

Residents of the Saylorsburg area heard mutterings, rumblings, and outright thunderings—but it was all noise. Nothing happened.

Prediction for today's weather: That's right "Sunny and hot with high 92 to 98."

New Altitude Mark Claimed

Washington (AP) — The Navy said yesterday Lt. Col. Marion E. Carl, a Marine Corps pilot, set a new altitude record of 83,236 feet in the Douglas Skyrocket research plane on Aug. 21.

The Navy said the unofficial world mark was established during a test of a newly developed high-altitude flying suit.

The previous altitude record was 79,494 feet, set in the same airplane by Douglas test pilot Bill Bridgeman on Aug. 7, 1951.

A Navy spokesman said Carl is at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., for an attempt today on the speed mark of 1,238 miles and hour set by Bridgeman in the navy D-558-2 Skyrocket Aug. 15, 1951.

As in Bridgeman's altitude and speed record flights, Carl's runs are being made through aerial launching. The Skyrocket is carried to an altitude of 20,000 feet or better by a B-29 "mother plane," and then is released.

National Aeronautical Association rules require that altitude record attempts be launched from the ground and that speed runs be made at specified altitudes.

Bible Floating Up To Germany

Washington (AP) — The State Department said yesterday it has no objection to the idea of floating Bibles by balloon into iron curtain countries.

But if the balloons are to be released from Western Germany, permission of the West German authorities will be required, officials said.

West German Arrests Mount

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Agents by West German police fighting an invasion of Communist agents seeking to sabotage next Sunday's West zone elections mounted to nearly 4,000 last night.

The Red infiltrators were sent in from East Germany in an attempt to defeat West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's pro-Western regime.

West Germany has reinforced its police barricades along the eastern frontier. For three days police have been plucking hundreds of Red agents with false visas from every train arriving from Soviet-occupied East Germany. But still the Red hordes poured across the border. More than 800 were caught on trains arriving last night.

With the train approaches so closely watched, West German officials feared the Reds would try to sneak agents across the frontier at night in lightly-guarded forest areas.

Groups of more than 100 East Germans were reported gathering last night near the major crossing point of Helmstedt at the British zone frontier. It was feared that the East Germans were preparing to storm the border on foot, and Western police reinforcements were rushed to the area.

400 Americans Expected To Die In Holiday Wrecks

Chicago (AP) — Labor Day weekend highway traffic will kill 400 Americans, the National Safety Council estimated yesterday.

Ned Dearborn, council president, said he believes the toll could be cut more than half if motorists would adopt these three rules:

One—Cut your usual cruising speed 10 miles an hour.

Two—Double check before passing or changing lanes.

Three—Don't compete in traffic, let the other guy go first.

Dearborn said the council expects a record volume of travel during the summer's last holiday plus the back-to-school rush from vacation spots. Forty million vehicles are expected to be on the move.

Tombstone Gets In Way Of Driver

Indianapolis (AP) — Guy Hamblin thought a cemetery would be a safe place to teach his 50-year-old wife, Rosa, to drive.

But Mrs. Hamblin is in a hospital with a possible broken leg, arm and ribs. And Guy has a bump on his head.

The car went out of control and smashed a 20-foot tombstone.

Immediate Steps To Conserve Drinking Water Supplies Urged As Drought Continues

Members of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and Vacation Bureau along with all citizens of the area were called upon last night by Dale H. Larn, president, to recognize that a genuine emergency exists in the various water supplies of the Poconos. The most stringent safeguards and immediate measures to conserve the dwindling supply are necessary, Mr. Larn declared in a public statement.

"While a state of emergency has not been declared by officials of local governments it is quite clear that an alarming situation is present and every citizen should join with his neighbor in simple, practical actions to meet it," the Chamber president asserted.

"Everyone can stop using water for every purpose except human consumption and essential sanitation. The danger of a disastrous fire accompanied by a high wind and exhaustion of the water supply is one of the hazards.

"Cavah use of the ground water supply hastens the drying up of wells that are the sole source for many families and often of villages. Public health and safety are indistinguishable in this case. These dangers are actually upon us.

"Secondary danger and no less real is the possibility of a forest fire that might get out of control. It is not necessary to point out the consequences to life, limb and the future of the resort business," Mr. Larn said.

"This is not a time for panic or hysterics but I earnestly urge every member of our affiliated bodies and every citizen to recognize and act accordingly in the presence of a condition which I am convinced is the worst drought in the Poconos in this century," Mr. Larn declared.

Legionnaires Warned To Watch U.N. Lest U.S. Rights Be Lost; Air Force Cuts Hit

St. Louis (AP) — The American Legion was called upon yesterday at its national convention to carefully watch the "United Nations Chunder, Marching and Conversation Club" to see that the nation's rights are not lost.

"Make sure that if the U.N. doesn't eventually give away your children, your rights, your citizenship and your flag," former National Commander Donald R. Wilson of Clarkburg, W.Va., told the convention delegates at the opening session.

He said the Legion's newly elected national officers should make sure "the American people learn that you cannot fight a war by air-conditioned committees made up of people who either are not American or are anti-American."

But Wilson did not advocate withdrawal of the United States from U.N.

Another fight was brewing among Legion leaders, too. It centers around administration cuts in the Air Force budget.

The ground was laid for the battle in a report from the Legion's aeronautics committee which called the budget cut "ill-timed."

Reds Return U. S. Officers

Panmunjon, Tuesday (AP) — American sergeants and commissioned officers rode into freedom's sunshine cheering joyously today in what seemed to be the home stretch of war prisoners exchange under the Korean armistice.

It was a warm, sunny day at this neutral exchange point when the first 50 Americans—among 100 returned during the day arrived in Russian-built trucks. All except two were sergeants.

Many commissioned officers were in the second group of 25 Americans.

Among them was Lt. Col. Paul V. Liles of Birmingham, Ala., who in late 1951 was shown in a Hungarian Communist photograph in a Korean Red camp.

All of the freed prisoners appeared happy and in good health. However, the 20 Turks freed by the Reds during the day all of them in the second group were quiet, their faces solemn.

Also returning in today's quota of 400 Allied prisoners were 25 British, 5 Australians and 250 South Koreans.

Among the British prisoners freed was Lt. Col. James P. Carne, commander of the first battalion of the famed Gloucestershire regiment which made a last stand on the Imjin River in April, 1951.

The 37-year-old battalion leader was the highest-ranking British soldier captured by the Reds.

Water Supply Short

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Residents of Ohio's capital city were warned yesterday to use water sparingly or face the prospects of a stoppage of supply in some sections.

Even as the Wilson blast came, a fight appeared to be shaping up in the Legion's foreign relations committee over what stand the convention would take toward the U.N.

The Ohio delegation voted down a resolution of its executive committee supporting withdrawal. But there were similar resolutions and Rogers Kelley, of Elmhurst, Tex., chairman of the standing foreign relations committee, said there could be a real convention fight over the U.N.

Joe Hodges, past department commander of Virginia, said the Virginia delegation will try on the floor, probably Wednesday, to get the Legion to fight for restoration of a 143-wing Air Force.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon told the convention he knew there was some controversy over budget cuts which stripped five billion dollars from Air Force funds. But he assured the Legionnaires there would be "no interruption, no lag and no setback in aircraft production."

He said under the new budget the United States still will have more planes than the previous administration planned and this will be "accomplished without waste or duplication."

Non-Hydrogen Type Weapon Tested Aug. 23

Washington (AP) — Russia set off another atomic explosion on Aug. 23 of the fission, or non-hydrogen type, the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission disclosed last night.

The blast was in about the same range, the commission said, as those this country tested in Nevada in the Spring.

The largest one set off in those tests was equivalent to about 50,000 tons of TNT, or two and one half times as potent as the one that leveled Hiroshima during World War II.

Last night's announcement was the fifth official statement by the United States that Russia has been able to achieve an atomic explosion of some type.

On Aug. 19 the AEC said the Russians had conducted an atomic test on the morning of Aug. 12 and that information on the subject indicated that the test then involved both fission and thermonuclear reactions.

Thermonuclear is the label scientists put on the hydrogen explosion. The conventional uranium bomb produces its energy through the fission or splitting of atoms.

It was of a fission type blast that the AEC spoke last night.

In a terse announcement which a spokesman said he could not amplify, the commission said:

"On Aug. 23, 1953, a fission explosion took place in Russian territory. The explosion was in the same range of energy release as our recent Nevada tests and would appear to be part of a series. If this proves to be the fact, no further announcement will be made unless intelligence indicates information of greater interest."

Wording of the commission's statement indicated that it did not feel the Russians, by their latest test, had posed any new challenge to American atomic developments.

On Aug. 19 the United States countered a Russian claim to have tested a hydrogen bomb with a statement that this country produced a similar reaction more than two years ago.

As in the past the commission did not disclose just how it knew the Russians had tested another atomic device but the detection process is believed to be based on sampling of the upper atmosphere for the radioactive particles released by an atomic blast.

Previously the United States had disclosed that Russia had produced atomic explosions on Sept. 23, 1949, Oct. 3, 1951, Oct. 22, 1951 and Aug. 12, 1953.

West Attempts To Calm Storm Over Trieste

London (AP) — Western diplomats sought yesterday to cool off the hot flow of words between Italy and Yugoslavia over long disputed Trieste, as Belgrade accused Italian troops of violating Yugoslav borders north of the trouble area.

A spokesman for the Italian Embassy here said Britain had informed Rome that the British government had asked Belgrade for assurances that Yugoslavia would not annex its occupation zone of the Trieste free territory. Belgrade has denied it has any such intentions.

The British Foreign Office declined to comment on the Italian spokesman's statement.

Italian charges that Belgrade planned annexation brought the dispute over the strategic Adriatic port area to a new state of tension over the weekend.

Charges and countercharges with which Rome and Belgrade bombarded each other reached a climax Sunday when two Italian divisions were moved toward the Italian-Yugoslav border north of Trieste. Rome said the troop movements were "routine exercises."

The Belgrade radio charged last night that 23 Italian soldiers armed with automatic weapons had crossed 50 meters (about 164 feet) into Yugoslav territory near Nova Gorica suburban area near the Italian city of Gorizia—and deployed in "fighting order." The broadcast said the Italian troops had returned to their own soil "only at the second summons of the Yugoslav frontier patrol."

Meeting Called

Washington (AP) — The United States yesterday invited 15 other United Nations countries which have contributed forces in the Korean War to meet here today to discuss the time and place for a peace conference with the Communists.

McConnell To Erect Apartments

Addition of two five-room apartments to the newly purchased building on Elk St., East Stroudsburg, is contemplated by new owners Raymond D. and Ann M. McConnell, Shephard Ave., Delaware Water Gap.

McConnell disclosed yesterday he will begin the addition as soon as possible.

The transaction was recorded in Monroe County Courthouse June 23 with taxes paid on $24,500.

The building, located at 80 Elk St., on over two acres of property, now contains 22 rooms, divided into seven apartments. The additional building will in no way affect the present residents, it was reported.

Kannel purchased the structure Feb. 9, 1929 from the Elk Tanning Co. It also has five garages located in the rear of the apartment house. McConnell is an insurance broker with office in Delaware Water Gap.

Congregation Accords Rev. And Mrs. Crossan Royal Welcome Upon Their Return Home From Two-Month Flight To California

Half the congregation of Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church was on hand at East Stroudsburg Airport Sunday afternoon to welcome their pastor Rev. Alex Crossan, his wife and two children home from a flying two-month trip across country.

The reception was a complete surprise to the young couple. "We planned Mrs. John Richards from Pittsburgh about 2 p. m. and asked her to have our car at the airport. But we had no idea that in two hours such a crowd could be assembled," was the way Crossan expressed it.

"And best of all, arriving at our house we found a large sign reading 'Welcome Home' a full refrigerator, our dinner in the oven and the house spot-and-span. It certainly was wonderful to walk into such a grand reception."

Rev. Crossan explained that Mrs. Richards has done "a wonderful job" acting as pastor while he was gone. "She put out the bulletins, with the aid of a young girl, took good care of our car and rounded up the reception committee, which really made us feel good."

It was 4:15 p. m. when the flying minister touched down his Piper Clipper at Hal Hamlen's airport. And out stepped Rev. Crossan, his wife, their young son, Alexander III, 15, daughter Karen, 4, speckled with chicken pox she picked up in Wichita, Kan.

At altitudes ranging from 8 to 10 thousand feet, the family left Chicago at 10 a. m. Sunday and averaged 125 miles an hour en route home. They stopped in Pittsburgh for lunch, and to call home. "But not for long," Rev. Crossan said. "It was so hot out there we stayed only a few minutes and were glad to get back into the cool clouds."

It was a week ago today that the family embarked in Los Angeles, Calif., homeward bound.

Having taken the northern route westward across the nation, the southern artery seemed the best opportunity to gain a full knowledge of America from the air, and the first stop was Boulder, City, Colo. Later that day it was the Grand Canyon and the family stopped over night there.

off for Carlbad, N. Mexico, staying over night and Thursday night they arrived in Dallas, Texas, to visit friends. Friday it was Wichita, Kan., where the Crossans spent the night with friends, the husband being a jet plane test pilot and the man responsible for giving the young minister his first airplane ride.

Then it was on to Chicago to visit friends and the last leg of the cross-country hop started from there, ending at home.

For the family it was one of their greatest experiences. Both Rev. and Mrs. Crossan are West Coast natives, and relatives and friends there welcomed their arrival.

They left here June 28, right after the minister finished his morning service. First night they stopped in Meadville, Pa., about 200 miles distant. There they visited Rev. and Mrs. Robert Bradburn who were taking instructions prior to leaving early next year for Thailand and missionary work. Rev. Bradburn was pastor of Shawnee Presbyterian Church until a few months ago.

From Meadville the flight continued to Sioux City, Iowa, where relatives were waiting. Next day Casper, Wyo., was the jumping off spot and Rev. Crossan's previously published forced landing in Yellowstone National Park followed the next day.

DeHavilland Appearance Cancelled

A scheduled appearance by Olivia DeHavilland at Pocahontas Playhouse, this season has been cancelled, according to Rowena Stevens, owner-manager of the Summer theater.

Mrs. DeHavilland was slated to appear locally beginning the week of Sept. 21 in a new play, "The Dazzling Hour," under direction of Jose Ferrer.

"The Dazzling Hour" has been withdrawn from its pre-Broadway tryout, however, pending revision of the script, following the play's premiere performances at La Jolla Playhouse in California.

According to Ferrer and other sources connected with the play, it will take "at least two months to perfect it." This, Mrs. Stevens said, prohibits its opening at the Pocahontas theater this season.

The play is an adaptation by movie-scripter Ketti Frings of a successful French comedy. It was to have marked Miss DeHavilland's initial fling at light comedy on the legitimate stage, following unsuccessful attempts at drama in "Romeo and Juliet" and Shaw's "Candida."

According to Mrs. Stevens, the motion picture actress has expressed a desire to play the local theater next season.

New power developments at Niagara Falls will operate at night and in the off season to cut the flow over the falls to about one fourth of the normal volume, but will permit almost full flow when sightseers are likely to be present.

C-Men Check On Smugglers

Washington (AP)—The Treasury Department reported yesterday that crackdowns on attempted smugglers of arms and munitions highlighted work of its customs agents during the year which ended June 30.

David B. Strubinger, acting commissioner of the Bureau of Customs, reported that three major cases dealing with war materials sent or headed out of this country resulted in federal indictments.

In addition, C-men were credited with successes in cases involving the smuggling of livestock, diamonds, narcotics and psittacine (parrot-like) birds into the country and an alleged plot to take out gold bullion.

In one smuggling case, the report said, customs agents collared nine persons involved in alleged irregular shipment of small arms, rifles and ammunition from a Dallas sporting goods company into Mexico. The merchandise was confiscated by American and Mexican authorities.

An alleged plan to ship airplane engines from a Maryland concern to a dummy firm in Paris and thence to Poland in violation of the U. S. export license law led to charges of conspiracy against three persons in another case.

The treasury said customs investigators also succeeded in getting convictions in two major cattle smuggling cases, one involving 21 prime steers moved from Mexico into Texas and the other concerning 560 head of cattle stolen from North Mexican ranches and delivered illegally to markets in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

A probe of another cattle smuggling scheme, resulting in the seizure in Louisiana of 60 head of rare breeding stock valued at more than a million dollars, is still under way.

Strubinger reported that a three-year drive against illegal importation of birds wound up with a large number of conspiracy indictments in California.

Author Of 'Brain Wash' Book Says Americans Should Have More Sympathy For Victims

Washington, (AP)—The man who brought the term "brain washing" into the English language said yesterday he thinks Americans should have far more sympathy for the victims of Communist mental and physical bullying.

Edward Hunter, who wrote the book "Brain-washing in Red China," said of the soldiers and civilians who have been given the full treatment by the Reds:

Gold Freed On Bail In Perjury Case

Washington, (AP)—Ben Gold, Russian-born president of the International Fur and Leather Workers Union, was freed from jail by a professional bondsman yesterday after surrendering to answer a 3-count perjury indictment.

Gold sought to post $10,000 in U. S. Treasury bonds owned by his union as bail, but ran into trouble when the clerk of the court and a Justice Department attorney objected.

A professional bondsman finally bailed Gold out at a $500 fee—after the 54-year-old union president had spent an hour in the court house looking up.

No date was set for Gold's formal arraignment. Defense lawyers told newsmen he will plead innocent.

Gold was indicted here last Friday on charges that he lied under oath in swearing he was not a Communist in August, 1950, when he signed a non-Communist affidavit and filed it with the National Labor Relations Board.

If convicted, the union chief could face a possible maximum sentence of 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Gold, wearing dark glasses, surrendered at the office of Dist. Atty. Leo A. Rover and offered the $10,000 in Treasury bonds along with a letter signed by the secretary-treasurer of his union authorizing him to use them as bail.

James Mendendez, clerk of the U. S. District Court's criminal division, refused to accept the bonds, however, on the ground that Gold lacked proper authority from the union to use them as bail.

Joseph A. Lowther, a Justice Department attorney, took a similar position.

After lengthy debate, Judge Charles F. McLaughlin upheld Mendendez' contention that specific authority should come from the unions board.

Gold, a former avowed Communist, claimed he broke his Red party ties shortly before he filed a sworn affidavit with the National Labor Relations Board three years ago to comply with the Taft-Hartley law.

Wayside Vandalism

The Pocono Mountains roadsides are being littered more and more with debris, garbage, cans, bottles, etc., to the detriment of the beauty of the countryside, the health and safety of the residents and visitors.

There is adequate recourse under Pennsylvania law against motorists who are so thoughtless of the property of others and the countryside through which they travel. It is usually difficult to catch someone in the act of tossing out debris, but every license number of all such persons should be taken and used as the basis for prosecution.

People who have traveled in Connecticut where a high fine is set against such misdemeanors report great success with their careful enforcement program.

A very recent incident here when a bottle was thrown from a car against the windshield of another, demonstrates how careless disposal along public roads can lead to serious results. A young woman was severely lacerated as a result of the bottle tossing incident.

Children and animals along the wayside can become targets for these missiles. Shattered glass along roads and on lawns are in the frequent complaints received by authorities.

Prosecution is the answer. But prosecution depends on the alertness and determination of citizens to report with attendant supporting information the details necessary for authorities to enforce such prosecution.

Never Underestimate

When you realize that the 61-year-old woman who flew her light, single-engine plane across the Atlantic a few days ago authored a book called "I Fly as I Please," you realize even more thoroughly the truth of that line about never underestimating the power of a woman.

Every day the casual observer, if he bothers to look up at the sound of aircraft overhead, can see the same kind of small aircraft used by Mrs. Marion Hart the other night when she lifted it from a Newfoundland field and some hours later set it down on the big international airport in Ireland.

Her brother, who knows better than to be surprised at anything his sister essays in the way of aviation, raised his eyebrows mildly when a newsman called to tell him that Mrs. Hart had flown the Atlantic.

But that wasn't the way Marion Hart planned it. With a transatlantic airline pilot flying Wayne Vetterlein, son of Mrs. Helen Soles, Shawnee-on-Delaware, along as navigator, and probably as someone to talk to during the long moonlit hours over the broad ocean, Mrs. Hart made the trip look easy. Now she will continue alone to India, Africa, and any other spot that suggests an adventurous flight in a small plane designed chiefly for domestic rather than international flying.

Mrs. Hart must be a rugged soul, at that. After flying all night, she walked into the Shannon Airport lounge, admitted to being a little tired, but tossed off a large glass of Irish whisky and said she felt better. This will not endear her to those who take a dim view of elderly females flying the ocean and then downing a husky dram of that powerful potent before breakfast, but as we said before, never underestimate these women. They are, to put it in Hollywoodesque, super-colossal.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

"I Remember, I Remember"

(With apologies to Thomas Hood)

I remember, I remember

The house where I was born

Two built when fine

construction jobs

Were not a

hope for him

It had a second story and

The attic wasn't bad

Some where within the

They found what state would cost

I remember, I remember

The two so high and wide

It wasn't called a ranch house

for

Some midget and his bride

The kitchen wasn't featured by

What's called "the bright new look"

It had no any gadgets but

Had ample room to cook

I remember, I remember

The solid look houses had

Suggesting they would stand for years

And make no error sad

The cellar was a fortress and

A "refuge in the rock"

(The only water to be found

Was in a water crock)

I remember, I remember

The attic "in the blue"

A boy could stand night upright

And it had some windows, too

It had a roof of sturdiness

With chimney tall and thick

(An April shower brought no

shouts

Of "Man the lifeboats quick"

I remember, I remember

When our economy

Was such that builders had a chance

To build prodigiously

Hence I am not too hard on

them

Their headaches are not too

And they recall the time when they

COULD BUILD 'EM THAT WAY

TOO!

Truman To Blast Domestic Matters Only On Labor Day

Washington — Former President Harry Truman's Labor Day speech will be chiefly on domestic matters, and sizing up

He will throw the book at the Eisenhower Administration. However, it will be an "impartial" scoring. While pulling no punches in political fault-finding since leaving the White House, Truman will not engage in the kind of personal slugging that typified his campaign blasts in the closing weeks of last year's campaign. This time he will vent his ire on issues.

He will echo the main Democratic attacks of the past few months, about the "give-away Administration," hiking interest rates, and failing to make good on various election promises.

The former President explained why he is sidestepping foreign affairs at this time, during a discussion of his forthcoming address with friends.

"There are two reasons," he said. "The world situation is too precarious to make a political football of it. Also, the Republicans are looking for a scapegoat to cover up their bungling and funding. I don't propose to provide them with that aid. There are plenty of other things I can go after them on."

Truman has also talked over his speech with former Governor Adlai Stevenson.

The Illinois telephoned him an hour after arriving in New York, also. House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson. All of them will attend the "homecoming" banquet for Stevenson in Chicago on September 14 and have agreed to "say a few words."

The 1952 standard-bearer asked Truman for advice on one particular matter.

"Should I give Eisenhower my impressions of what I saw and heard during my trip?" asked Stevenson.

"I would say that's up to him," replied Truman.

"Of course," agreed Stevenson. "I wouldn't think of calling on him otherwise. But I have been told an invitation will be announced."

"If he asks you to come and see him," said Truman, "then you should go. That would be the courteous and proper thing to do, no argument about it. But you wait until he invites you. That's the courteous and proper thing for him to do, and you wait until he does it."

"I will follow your counsel to the letter," Stevenson declared.

Politics—Governor Tom Dewey has dropped an intriguing hint regarding his political future according to a long-time friend. He is saying Dewey told him he will run for Governor next year "unless I am in the Cabinet by then."

In that event, Dewey indicated he will back Senator Irving L. Hall for governor. . . . Former Governor Dever (D., Mass.), probably will not attempt a comeback because of poor health. That's what he is telling political associates. Dever appears deeply shaken by the recent deaths of former Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin and Senators Taft and Tobey. . . . Adlai Stevenson has made one dispute political commitment since returning from his globe-circling tour. He will not run for any office until after the 1956 convention. The Illinoisan has given that categorical assurance to close supporters. . . . California friends of George Kilham, head of American President, Steamship Line, are launching a boom to run him as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate next year. Their big uncertainty is whether Kilham would be willing to give up his lucrative job to take a chance in a highly doubtful race. . . . Democratic Chairman Steve Mitchell is safe as far as the National committee's meeting in Chicago is concerned. Undercover maneuvers to oust him have collapsed, although Matt Connelly, former White House staffer and ardent supporter of former Chairman Frank McKinney, is still trying to drum up an attack. . . . A veteran decorated by the Late Post, General Patton is running for Councilman of New York. He is Michael McNamara, who, commanding a unit of the famed Task Force A of the 159th Infantry.

Another Worry. Another "surplus" problem is disturbing Agriculture Department officials. . . . It's the steady upward trend of "short-term" farm debt, that is increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. . . . That's what I. W. Duggan, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, told Senator Milton Young (R., N.D.) when he asked him about the matter. Young, second-ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, blinked in surprise.

"Isn't that kind of sudden?" he declared.

"Not at all," said Duggan. "Farm debt has been soaring since 1936. In this period it has just about doubled. In 1946 the total was $7,800,000,000; this year it will come close to $16,000,000,000."

That's an alarming situation," said Young, "especially in view of better-than-usual crops in the last 10 years as well as fair prices as a result of war and emergency. Now farm prices are falling, and the future is highly uncertain."

"It is indeed," agreed Duggan. "In the Agriculture Department we are greatly concerned over the steady increase of the short-term debt of farmers because 49 percent of it is owed to merchants and dealers and that means a doubly precarious situation. Most of them also are in debt. And with interest rates going up, things are not as they ought to be."

"Isn't that kind of sudden?" he declared.

"Not at all," said Duggan. "Farm debt has been soaring since 1936. In this period it has just about doubled. In 1946 the total was $7,800,000,000; this year it will come close to $16,000,000,000."

That's an alarming situation," said Young, "especially in view of better-than-usual crops in the last 10 years as well as fair prices as a result of war and emergency. Now farm prices are falling, and the future is highly uncertain."

"It is indeed," agreed Duggan. "In the Agriculture Department we are greatly concerned over the steady increase of the short-term debt of farmers because 49 percent of it is owed to merchants and dealers and that means a doubly precarious situation. Most of them also are in debt. And with interest rates going up, things are not as they ought to be."

Politics—Governor Tom Dewey has dropped an intriguing hint regarding his political future according to a long-time friend. He is saying Dewey told him he will run for Governor next year "unless I am in the Cabinet by then."

In that event, Dewey indicated he will back Senator Irving L. Hall for governor. . . . Former Governor Dever (D., Mass.), probably will not attempt a comeback because of poor health. That's what he is telling political associates. Dever appears deeply shaken by the recent deaths of former Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin and Senators Taft and Tobey. . . . Adlai Stevenson has made one dispute political commitment since returning from his globe-circling tour. He will not run for any office until after the 1956 convention. The Illinoisan has given that categorical assurance to close supporters. . . . California friends of George Kilham, head of American President, Steamship Line, are launching a boom to run him as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate next year. Their big uncertainty is whether Kilham would be willing to give up his lucrative job to take a chance in a highly doubtful race. . . . Democratic Chairman Steve Mitchell is safe as far as the National committee's meeting in Chicago is concerned. Undercover maneuvers to oust him have collapsed, although Matt Connelly, former White House staffer and ardent supporter of former Chairman Frank McKinney, is still trying to drum up an attack. . . . A veteran decorated by the Late Post, General Patton is running for Councilman of New York. He is Michael McNamara, who, commanding a unit of the famed Task Force A of the 159th Infantry.

Another Worry. Another "surplus" problem is disturbing Agriculture Department officials. . . . It's the steady upward trend of "short-term" farm debt, that is increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. . . . That's what I. W. Duggan, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, told Senator Milton Young (R., N.D.) when he asked him about the matter. Young, second-ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, blinked in surprise.

"Isn't that kind of sudden?" he declared.

Donations Of $9,500 Acknowledged By General Hospital

County, Camp, Estate Give To Hospital

Contributions to the General Hospital treasury totaled $9,500 this month, directors learned yesterday.

Biggest voluntary contribution was made by Camp Tamiment, in Pike County, which played host to the board of directors last night.

Tamiment and Sandyville — a residential village at the camp — gave a total $3,100.

Another $1,400 was from an estate which it has taken 25 years to settle.

The third sum was an appropriation of $5,000 by county commissioners out of county funds.

The $1,400 check was from the estate of the late Dr. Phoebe H. Jagenbaugh, who died in 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephson, operators of Camp Tamiment, said that of the Tamiment donation, voluntary contributions accounted for $2,400. An additional $700 was paid by a children's carnival at the camp.

Distribution of the gift was specified as follows: $250 for the hospital library; $1,000 toward the operational deficit; and the rest for the nurses' home fund started by Hughes Printing Co. some time ago.

At the business session, directors learned that "everything" has been going, in terms of hospital services performed.

Patients admitted for treatment during August numbered 426.

The daily census averaged 100, two higher than the same period last year.

There were 572 dispensary treatments, compared with 544 last year. Most of these were accident cases.

The number of outpatients who received treatment totaled 1,633, compared with but 1,499 last year.

The number of meals served was substantially higher — 13,471 compared with 13,024.

Even the births rose during the month — 72 this year compared with 66 last year.

The annual audit was reviewed by directors. Next meeting was set for Skyline Inn, where the board will be the guests of Sen. Montgomery P. Grove and Frank Kunkle, president and manager respectively.

BEWITCHED, BOTHERED AND BEWILDERED — That's what most merchants will be today as the State's new one per cent sales and use tax goes into effect. Explaining some of the bewildering complexities in the law and the necessary bookkeeping is Samuel Monatt, Stroudsburg tax consultant, who spoke to more than 150 Monroe business people last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg. Others are J. L. Kerlin (left), chairman of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association resolution committee, and Ted Getz, association president. (Daily Record Photo)

Orthopedic Clinic Scheduled Sept. 9 At General Hospital Under State Supervision

The second annual orthopedic diagnostic clinic will be held Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 9 a. m. in Monroe County General Hospital.

Dr. Clement Hanlon, Bethlehem, orthopedic surgeon, will examine any resident of Monroe County under 21 years of age who has an orthopedic defect.

The clinic is part of the orthopedic service provided by the Orthopedic Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Locally, the Monroe County Association for Crippled Children and Adults supports the clinic and provides service for Monroe residents over 21.

Special arrangements will be made with Dr. Hanlon to examine adults after the children's clinic. The exact time will be announced later.

Persons over 21 in need of orthopedic care are asked to notify Mrs. Olaf Pedersen, 612 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, telephone 2585, and she will arrange an appointment.

Patients already registered at the clinic are to notify the State Clinic, telephone 218, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Mrs. Helen O. Minnich, secretary, pointed out that this requirement is different from the past because the early Fall date has caused a time factor and makes personal contact by State nurses and other health personnel impossible.

State nurses will visit as many persons as time permits, but patients are asked not to wait for a personal invitation.

They may contact the main office either by telephone or in person at 621 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, as soon as possible, so that registrations on clinic day can be minimized.

Parents with children under 12 with orthopedic defects who have not been examined at the clinic are to call Stroudsburg 218 and their needs will be taken care of in accordance with policies set up by the State and exercised in Monroe County under the direction of Dr. F. E. Chamberlain, chairman of the Orthopedic Division of the Department of Health, Harrisburg. This is also true for patients referred to the clinic by family physicians.

Also during the past three months contract provisions reducing the work week to 35 hours have been won for 75,000 members, he said.

Dubinsky added that in all these cases "compensating increases" were won, so that workers have suffered no loss in earnings because of hour reduction.

The ILGWU president reported present union membership at 436,000, an increase of 5,000 since last Jan. 1.

tended Communist party meetings, lectures and a Communist leadership school.

McCarthy said the woman had access to classified material about Army food shipments abroad.

"This would give a good check on troop movements," he added.

Two local automobile enthusiasts are shining their ancient vintage cars preparatory to joining car collectors from all over the county in one of the biggest motor convalesces, the historic Glidden Tours.

John Harl, of 422 Colbert St., Stroudsburg, and Bernice Hawk, Stroudsburg RD 1, will be chauffeuring respective 1914 and 1917 model Fords in the trek. Both are now veterans of the tour.

The travel starts in Cleveland, Ohio Sept. 14. The cars will travel from there to Columbus, Toledo and Detroit, with the tour ending Sept. 19 at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

Sponsored by the Antique Automobile Club of America the tour this year is headed by James Melton, well known singer and a leading antique car enthusiast.

Jerry Duryea, son of the pioneer automobile builder, is vice chairman. Cooperating are the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, the Horseless Carriage Club and other car groups.

The American Automobile Association, which sponsored the original Glidden Tours soon after the turn of the century, also supports the modern revivals. Its affiliated clubs in Ohio and the Automobile Club of Michigan will signpost the route and provide emergency road service.

Last year Harl and Hawk drove in the caravan which ultimately concluded in Washington, D. C. A stop-over in Stroudsburg was on the agenda. In 1951 Buck Hill Falls was the point of destination.

Most cars date to 1918 or earlier. Those built before 1905 may be hauled over the road in trailers, but will participate in four parades under their own power. All later cars, however, are required to cover the full distance under their own power.

The finale of the tour will be the annual old car festival at Greenfield Village at Dearborn, which Henry Ford established as a museum of Americana. The festival on Sept. 19 will be part of the Ford Company's 50th anniversary celebration.

Buyers Start Paying Sales Impost Today

Pennsylvania's new sales tax went into effect at midnight last night.

Today housewives, farmers, businessmen, children, and everyone else who buys something in Monroe County will probably pay the new tax.

Merchants and businessmen on the whole are ill-prepared to cope with the new tax, according to business leaders in the Stroudsburgs.

It will mean a mass of paper work, long extra hours of bookkeeping, and a good deal of improvisation of "official" forms and blanks.

The latter is necessary because the State has failed to provide the forms needed, or even the forms needed for applying for forms.

There will be thousands of decisions made on what is taxable and what non-taxable, what is exempted, who must pay and for what.

Some idea of the confusion likely to follow in the wake of the first few weeks or months of the tax was evident from the questions of more than 150 businessmen, farmers, retailers, housewives, manufacturers, dealers, clothiers, grocers, who gathered at the Penn-Stroud Hotel to hear some of the answers of Sam M. Monatt, Stroudsburg CPA and tax consultant.

He was present at the urging of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association which sponsored the open meeting in the hope of getting some clarification of the numberless questions the new tax raises.

Monatt gave a resume of the entire sales tax and use tax law reviewed many of the points published previously in The Daily Record. Reprints of a Daily Record story of Aug. 20 were distributed to those present. It listed taxable and non-taxable items at least specified by the Revenue Department.

Monatt's resume took 30 minutes. The question period followed. The questions asked and a half.

The questions asked most often dealt not with taxable or non-taxable items but with how the records must be maintained.

Monatt made clear that it's not only a sales tax — but a use tax, too.

If a storekeeper buys some show-cases in New York and puts them into his store in Stroudsburg he'll have to pay a use tax — about the same as the sales tax.

The housewife at the supermarket will have to wait while the clerks and cashiers sort out taxable items from non-taxable items in her basket.

Basically, the merchants heard last night, the new law aims at taxing every piece of tangible property sold in Pennsylvania.

The exemptions are primarily food, clothing and purchases of 10 cents or less.

The law specifies a one per cent tax on the dollar. Actually residents will be paying more in many instances: a tax of one cent on an 11-cent purchase is actually a tax of almost 10 per cent.

The shortage of urgently-needed forms was pointed up by the meeting.

One of the first needs is a registration form which will lead to the retailer's number. It will be hard to obtain a exemption when purchasing goods for resale. If the retailer doesn't have this registration number. Yet the forms for obtaining the number are not to be had in the county. The tax sent here were crapped up days ago.

One resourceful retailer has mimeographed exemption certificates which he hopes will serve until he receives the proper form.

Most of the merchants at the meeting appeared to be determined to do the best they can in the face of inadequate supplies, preparation, instruction, explanation, but none were looking forward to the new way of doing business.

"The records are the records... that's the big headache."

Parolee Arrested On Charge Of Taking $500 From Wallet Belonging To Rose St. Man

An East Stroudsburg man who was paroled from Eastern Penitentiary three months ago was committed to Monroe County jail yesterday afternoon on charges of taking between $500 and $600.

Chief of Police Arthur Swink, who made the arrest listed the man as Correll Smith, 42, of 32 Kistler St., East Stroudsburg.

Complaint was filed by Arthur Lee, rear of 24 Rose St., East Stroudsburg. Lee told police he met Smith Saturday night in a local tap room and showed him the money in his wallet. When the taproom closed, Lee said, he and Smith went to the Rose St. address and Smith remained overnight.

Lee told police he put the wallet under a dresser when retiring. Next morning, he said, the money and Smith both were gone. He reported the incident to Louis Carmella, East Stroudsburg police officer, about 7 a. m. Sunday.

After an investigation Smith was summoned to police headquarters yesterday and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Marshall Neyhart. He pleaded innocent and was sent to jail to await the September term of court. He was represented at the hearing by Russell Mervine, Stroudsburg attorney.

Chief Swink said Smith was convicted of two counts of burglary, larceny and a separate count of perjury and sentenced to concurrent terms of 2 1/2 to 6 years, and another term of 1 to 2 years on June 6, 1949. The arrest in 1949 followed a series of county-wide thefts for which Smith was tried. Chief Swink reported. He was arrested in Albuquerque, N. Mex.

Engineer John B. Aicher was slated to begin his work and go on the county payroll today.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor said yesterday that newly-purchased addressograph equipment has not yet been delivered, and some maps on order have not been received.

Until these supplies arrive, start of work on the assessment record system will be delayed, Taylor said.

It appears that the county's new permanent record assessment system won't be started on Sept. 1 after all. The commissioners' office yesterday said necessary supplies haven't yet been received.

Dates Fixed For Signing New Electors

Traveling registrars will sit at 12 different places in the county this month to register residents for voting at the Nov. 3 general election.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor will tour the county today to tack up notices of the dates and places at such places as postoffices, general stores, and similar meeting places.

In addition to the dates of the special registrations, voters may register at the commissioners' office in the Courthouse daily from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to noon.

Last day to register is Sept. 28. The commissioners said yesterday that Stroudsburg Third Ward voters will ballot at the Indian Queen Hotel, Stroudsburg, in November. The space for voting was donated by Gerald P. O'Neill, operator. Third Ward residents used to vote at the YMCA, which is now being rebuilt.

Yesterday also marked the testing of voting machines. Tools were broken out and one of the machines in the Courthouse underwent a routine testing and setting-up. The machines will be used for demonstration purposes later.

Traveling registrars will sit according to the following schedule this month: registration period will be from 6 to 9 p. m. at each place.

Kresgeville and Middle Stroud election houses, Sept. 8; Tollyhanna election house and Pocono Lake fire house, Sept. 10; Saylorsburg Lake House and Brodheadville election house, Sept. 11; Mt. ### Wayside Vandalism

The Pocono Mountains roadsides are being littered more and more with debris, garbage, cans, bottles, etc. to the detriment of the beauty of the countryside, the health and safety of the residents and visitors.

There is adequate recourse under Pennsylvania law against motorists who are so thoughtless of the property of others and the countryside through which they travel. It is usually difficult to catch someone in the act of tossing out debris, but every license number of all such persons should be taken and used as the basis for prosecution.

People who have traveled in Connecticut where a high fine is set against such misdemeanors report great success with their careful enforcement program.

A very recent incident here when a bottle was thrown from a car against the windshield of another, demonstrates how careless disposal along public roads can lead to serious results. A young woman was severely lacerated as a result of the bottle tossing incident.

Children and animals along the wayside can become targets for these missiles. Shattered glass along roads and on lawns are in the frequent complaints received by authorities.

Prosecution is the answer. But prosecution depends on the alertness and determination of citizens to report with attendant supporting information the details necessary for authorities to enforce such prosecution.

Never Underestimate

When you realize that the 61-year-old woman who flew her light, single-engine plane across the Atlantic a few days ago authored a book called "I Fly as I Please," you realize even more thoroughly the truth of that line about never underestimating the power of a woman.

Every day the casual observer, if he bothers to look up at the sound of aircraft overhead, can see the same kind of small aircraft used by Mrs. Marion Hart the other night when she lifted it from a Newfoundland field and some hours later set it down on the big international airport in Ireland.

Her brother, who knows better than to be surprised at anything his sister essays in the way of aviation, raised his eyebrows mildly when a newsman called to tell him that Mrs. Hart had flown the Atlantic.

But that wasn't the way Marion Hart planned it. With a transatlantic airline pilot flying Wayne Vetterlein, son of Mrs. Helen Soles, Shawnee-on-Delaware, along as navigator, and probably as someone to talk to during the long moonlit hours over the broad ocean, Mrs. Hart made the trip look easy. Now she will continue alone to India, Africa, and any other spot that suggests an adventurous flight in a small plane designed chiefly for domestic rather than international flying.

Mrs. Hart must be a rugged soul, at that. After flying all night, she walked into the Shannon Airport lounge, admitted to being a little tired, but tossed off a large glass of Irish whisky and said she felt better. This will not endear her to those who take a dim view of elderly females flying the ocean and then downing a husky dram of that powerful potent before breakfast, but as we said before, never underestimate these women. They are, to put it in Hollywoodesque, super-colossal.

"I Remember, I Remember"

(With apologies to Thomas Hood)

I remember, I remember

The house where I was born

Two, built when I was

When I was a little boy

Were not a hope for me

It had a second story

And the attic wasn't big

Some where within the

blueprints

when I found what stairs would cost

I remember, I remember

The moon so high and wide

It wasn't called a ranch house

for

Some midget and his bride

The kitchen wasn't featured by

What's called "the bright new

look"

It had no garages, but

Had ample room to cook

I remember, I remember

The solid look bones had

years

And make no owner sad

The cellar was a fortress and

A "refuge in the rock"

(The only water to be found

Was in a water crock)

I remember, I remember

The attic "in the blue"

A box, could stand quite bright

And it had some windows, too

It had a roof of sturdiness

With chimney tall and thick

(An April shower brought no

shouts

Of "Man the lifers quick!"

I remember, I remember

When our economy

Was such that builders had a

chance

To build prodigiously

them

Their headaches are not few

And they recall the time when they

TOO!

New York is to build a mammoth new aqueduct at Coney Island.

For a couple of generations it was located at Battery Park, at the foot of Manhattan, convenient to millions of visitors.

Coney puts it well from the beaten path, but it will be such a seventh wonder that it will probably draw the crowds.

The only question is whether the Coney Island mood being what it is, a fish will have any appeal unless it is two-headed, born with an eye in the middle or advertised as half-fish and half-man.

THE DISUNITED NATIONS

Robert S. Allen Reports

Truman To Blast Domestic Matters Only On Labor Day

Washington. Former President Harry Truman's Labor Day speech will be chiefly on domestic matters, and nothing but.

He will throw the book at the Eisenhower Administration. However, it will be an "I'll be a person" speech. While polling on punches in the first political fresh-blood since leaving the White House, Truman will not engage in the kind of personal slugging that typified his campaign in the closing weeks of last year's campaign. This time he will vent his ire on issues.

He will echo the main Democratic attacks of the past few months about the "Give-away Administration," bickering interest rates, and failing to make good on various election promises.

The former President explained why he is undertaking foreign affairs at this time during a discussion of his forthcoming address with friends.

"There are two reasons," he said. "The world situation is too precarious to make a political football of it. Also, the Republicans are looking for a wage-cut to cover up their funding and funding. I don't propose to provide them with that aid. There are plenty of other things I can go after them on."

Truman has also talked over his speech with former Governor Adlai Stevenson.

The Illinoisan telephoned him an hour after arriving in New York; also, House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson. All of them will attend the "homecoming" banquet for Stevenson in Chicago on September 14 and have agreed to "say a few words."

The 1952 standard-bearer asked Truman for advice on one particularly matter.

"Should I give Eisenhower my impressions of what I saw and heard during my trip?" asked Stevenson.

"I would say that's up to him," replied Truman.

"Of course," agreed Stevenson. "I wouldn't think of calling on him otherwise. But I have been told an invitation will be announced."

"If he asks you to come and see him," said Truman, "then you should go. That would be the courteous and proper thing to do, no argument about it. But you wait until he invites you. That's the courteous and proper thing for him to do and you wait until he does it."

"I will follow your counsel to the letter," Stevenson declared.

Politics—Governor Tom Dewey has dropped an intriguing hint regarding his political future, according to a long-time friend. He is saying Dewey told him he will run for Governor next year "unless I am in the Cabinet by then."

In that event, Dewey indicated he will back Senator Irving L. Davis for governor. Former Governor Dewey (D., Mass.) probably will not attempt a comeback because of poor health. That's what he is telling political associates. Dewey appears deeply shaken by the recent deaths of former Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin and Senators Taft and Tobey.

Adlai Stevenson has made one definite political commitment since returning from his globe-circling tour. He will not run for any office until after the 1954 convention. The Illinoisan has given that categorical assurance to close supporters.

California friends of George Kilham, head of American Steamship Lines, are launching a boom to run him as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate next year. Their big uncertainty is whether Kilham would be willing to give up his lucrative job to take a chance on a highly doubtful race.

Democratic Chairman Steve Mitchell is safe as far as the National committee meeting in Chicago is concerned. Underscored maneuvers to oust him have collapsed, although Matt Connelly, former White House staffman and artist, supporter of former Chairman Frank McKinney, is still trying to drum up an attack.

A veteran decorated by the late General Patton is running for Councilman of New York. He is Vincent McNamara, who, commanded a unit of the famed Task Force A of the 129th Engineers.

Another Worry. Another "Sore" problem is disturbing Agriculture Department officials.

It's the steady upward trend of "short-term" farm debt, that is increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 a year.

That's what I. W. Duggan, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, told Senator Milton Young (R., N.D.) when he asked him about the matter. Young, second-ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, blinked in surprise.

"Isn't that kind of sudden?" he declared.

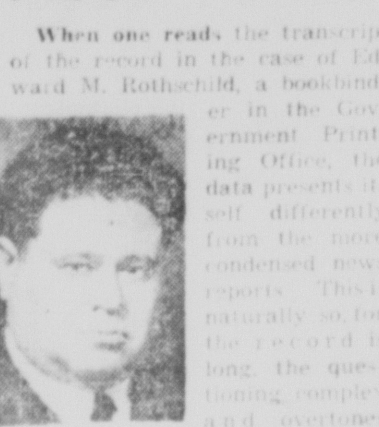

"Not at all," said Duggan. "Farm debt has been mounting since 1946. In this period it has just about doubled. In 1946 the total was $7,800,000,000; this year it will come close to $16,000,000,000."

That's an alarming situation, said Young, "especially in view of better-than-usual crops in the last 10 years as well as fair prices as a result of war and war emergency. Now farm prices are falling, and the future is highly uncertain."

"It is indeed," agreed Duggan. "In the Agriculture Department we are greatly concerned over the steady increase of the short-term debt of farmers because 40 percent of it is owed to merchants and dealers and that means a doubly precarious situation. Most of them also are in debt. And with interest rates going up, things are not as they ought to be."

FBI Told Government Printing Office About Rothschild In '43; Report Ignored

When one reads the transcript of the record in the case of Edward M. Rothschild, a bookbinder in the Government Printing Office, the data presents itself differently from the more condensed news reports. This is naturally so, for the record is long, the questioning complex and overtones of defense.

It would seem that this is a case which requires study by the Department of Justice, because what is involved is access to pre-war intelligence information and data as revealed in the theft of the atom and hydrogen bombs. We do not know the entire story of the case, and we shall not until a thorough investigation has been made of the security methods of the Atomic Energy Commission.

We do know that from 1942 to 1947, the crucial years, the FBI was forbidden to engage in this kind of "spy" work. Former Governor Dewey (D., Mass.) probably will not attempt a comeback because of poor health. That's what he is telling political associates. Pomp But No Circumstances: He wasn't bounced by the Queen. Group-Capt. Peter Townsend himself requested transfer from the Palace. Now he is having the time of his young life. Brussels' habes made over him. Wealthy socialites lionize him. He got so many calls from love-struck pigeons he had to change his phone. He's telling friends he never cared for Meg but thanks for the "advertising," anyway. As for Princess Margaret, she has no broken heart, not for anyone. Her present difficulties with family authority concern her "gay parties." Few realize the palace is as big as a hotel, has private apartments with special entrances. Meg's quarters are a block from her family, so her pals come and go at all hours. Invites to her shindigs are musts, her lady-in-waiting phones the favored guests, says: "You are commanded to attend on Princess Margaret at 8.30." OK, OK, I'll be there!

Striped Pantywaists: How they hate to admit it, but seven in the State Department Legal Division are members of the National Lawyers Guild (declared subversive last week by Atty. Gen. Brownell) and two are past presidents of the Washington Chapter. How do you like that, Senator Lehman? Exactly what Joe McCarthy's been yelling for years. . . . How come CBS' TV Chronicle suddenly turned into a show window for McLuberal and anti-anti-Communists? Seems to be regular fare this season. Burned me up to hear Edward W. Barrett, a former Asst. Sec. of State under Dean Acheson, say, "The Democrats exposed the Reds better." Un-huh. Flip the dial. . . . Attention Herb Brownell! Couldn't invaders of the V amendment who LATER tell interviewers they are NOT Communists and that they have NOTHING to hide be prosecuted for wrongly invoking the privilege?

Lost Angels, Calif. Does this mean romance? Errol Flynn took one gander at Antonella Laund's sexy performance in the forthcoming Italian film "Three Forbidden Stories," and hired her on the spot to be his next leading signora. . . . Mail reaching this dept. is 12 to one against Dick Haymes. . . . Steve Crane, who is the puppy of Lana Turner's childhood, has a new baby in Hollywood. It's the Luan Restaurant, a South Sea drop-in for movie stars. . . . Things must be tough in Texas. At least three flicker trails of star-making who went there recently seeking backing for new films from amovous oil barons came back to Hollywood minus. . . . Sleeper of the year is Columbia's "Mission Over Korea," with John Hodiak.

The People's Choice: Here's the pay-off. Borough Pres. Wagner's aid, Stanley Lowell, who did publicity for FDR's Congressional campaign, spent two hours in Rudy Bailey's office last week sealing the deal. Would this prove, maybe, that Dubinsky and the ADA are running two candidates for Mayor, not one? Hot stuff. . . . Labor Sec. Durkin ultimatum like this week-end that unless he comes out for repeal of Taft-Hartley he'll resign with a front-page blast against the Pres. Serves him right for hiring a Dem. I thought the country voted GOP.

Around the World on a Typewriter: Madrid snail set drinks "Balls, Blood." That's tequila, blood oranges, a little tabasco, and a lot of Oie! It's that hot! . . . Jack Heinz and Drew Malloy finally a Pittsburgh merger, and are I happy that's over. . . . Careful Hughes, silent film star who is now a missionary, asks for shoes, clothing, bedding, etc. for his Indian wards. Address: Brother David, St. Mary's P. E. Church, Nixon, Nev. . . . What? Not another about Betsy von Furstenberg? This time they've got the star reprising Peter Hoff, whose late father owned the late Sealiscuit. But where is Franchot?

Dames Make News: Robin Roberts (the gal, not the ballplayer) the brunette Humphrey Bogart bopped with a plate at El Morocco, and Philip Van Rensselaer of that family, at Bob Olin's. . . . Prince Mahmoud Pahlavi, b'r of the Shah of Iran awaiting Jesse James, the Lou Walters' show gal at the Little Club. Rather gum, too, since his brother's restoration. Now it's a matter of protocol and he's got to be on his best behavior. . . . Twice in the past two weeks Marilyn Erskine was introduced to Stanley Kramer, the highbrow movie producer, and he failed to recognize her both times. She was Mrs. Kramer in 1945 for a fortnight. Well, how should he remember? That's only two weeks. . . . Lew Parker, the awfully funny fellow, and Shirley Evans got a Mexican Sloan O'Dwyer three weeks ago. She (Shirley) wasn't laughing at his jokes. . . . Orrin Lehman, the Sen's hero nephew, and Nanette Fabray, of the musicals, looking into each other's eyes at El Borracho. Her's are so pretty.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

At 10:02 a. m. one morning last month, there was great excitement in the U. S. Department of Commerce.

A large number of people had assembled in the lobby of the Commerce Building in Washington, D. C., to watch for an important event at least it was important as far as the Census Bureau was concerned.

Then it happened. News and TV cameras clicked, reporters wrote all ages. Government officials and clerks stood still and eyed the device. Then slowly on the nose-counting machine, the figure 160,000,000 changed to 160,000,000.

Somewhere in the United States the 160 millionth citizen had seen the light of day. Our population had reached the 160,000,000 mark.

You may now ask, why the excitement? Aren't there some 2,700,000 people born every year? Doesn't the population of the United States increase by 10,000,000 every four years?

I don't know myself why the Census Bureau got so excited at the new figure. Nobody knows who the 160 millionth citizen was. Nobody will ever know.

Perhaps it was a future President of our country. Perhaps it was another Eisenhower, perhaps another Dorothy Lamour or Rita Hayworth or Irving Berlin or Albert Einstein. Whoever it was, he or she will never be so identified. No one will be able to pin a medal on him and say "You are No. 160,000,000."

And perhaps it is better so. Perhaps it would be better if none of our so-called celebrities remained anonymous and weren't given such an invitation to become concealed.

Can you imagine if some movie actor or actress were some day to be given a golden, diamond-studded belt with the inscription "To the 160 millionth citizen of the United States with his Country's sincere gratitude?"

Incidentally, I have often wondered why we make so much of an ado about anyone's birth.

If the hip corsage takes, SRO signs will have a new meaning—Seating Room Only.

The Brigadoon song, "Come to Me, Bend to Me," will have a new meaning, too. And watch those pins.

Wedding ring manufacturers are trying to encourage double-ring ceremonies. It must be the large economy-size influence.

The double-ring ceremony does have its lasting effect. Every time the husband tries to wash his hands he feels the pinch.

The new rings are flower-carved, hyacinths for constancy. May blossoms for happiness and woodland lilies for innocence. Check the Kinsey report and find out where you stand.

Or have an old-fashioned singeing ceremony, no questions asked.

Sponges are believed to be about the lowest form of animal life.

Neither did I mention the fact that, according to my best information, many children are born every day, that just being born really means nothing in the general scheme of things, that life itself is a very accidental happening and that it is only what one does with his life that matters.

Likewise, do I wonder sometimes whether just as there is entirely too much rejoicing at a person's birth, there is also entirely too much mourning at his death.

If the time between the two events is put to good use, not only the person concerned but Nature, as well as the parents, have done a good job. The sensible thing, then, would be to issue to the departed a receipt in full and let it go at that.

Neither did I mention the fact

Donations Of $9,500 Acknowledged By General Hospital

County, Camp, Estate Give To Hospital

Contributions to the General Hospital treasury totaled $9,500 this month, directors learned yesterday.

Biggest voluntary contribution was made by Camp Tamiment, in Pike County, which played host to the board of directors last night.

Tamiment and Sandyville — a residential village at the camp — gave a total $3,100.

Another $1,400 was from an estate which it has taken 25 years to settle.

The third sum was an appropriation of $5,000 by county commissioners out of county funds.

The $1,400 check was from the estate of the late Dr. Phoebe H. Jagenbaugh, who died in 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephson, operators of Camp Tamiment, said that of the Tamiment donation, voluntary contributions accounted for $2,400. An additional $700 was paid by a children's carnival at the camp.

Distribution of the gift was specified as follows: $250 for the hospital library; $1,000 toward the operational deficit; and the rest for the nurses' home fund started by Hughes Printing Co. some time ago.

At the business session, directors learned that "everything" has been going, in terms of hospital services performed.

Patients admitted for treatment during August numbered 426.

The daily census averaged 100, two higher than the same period last year.

There were 572 dispensary treatments, compared with 544 last year. Most of these were accident cases.

The number of outpatients who received treatment totaled 1,633, compared with but 1,499 last year.

The number of meals served was substantially higher — 13,471 compared with 13,024.

Even the birth rate during the month — 72 this year compared with 66 last year.

The annual audit was reviewed by directors. Next meeting was set for Skyline Inn, where the board will be the guests of Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe and Frank J. Boudell, president and manager respectively.

County Votes $5,000 Grant

An appropriation of $5,000 to the General Hospital was voted yesterday by county commissioners.

Last year's appropriation was $2,500. The increase was approved because the hospital is reported in need of funds this year, the commissioners' office said.

The second annual orthopedic diagnostic clinic will be held Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 9 a. m. in Monroe County General Hospital.

Dr. Clement Hanlon, Bethlehem, orthopedic surgeon, will examine any resident of Monroe County under 21 years of age who has an orthopedic defect.

The clinic is part of the orthopedic service provided by the Orthopedic Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Locally, the Monroe County Association for Crippled Children and Adults supports the clinic and provides service for Monroe residents over 21.

Special arrangements will be made with Dr. Hanlon to examine adults after the children's clinic. The exact time will be announced later.

Persons over 21 in need of orthopedic care are asked to notify Mrs. Olaf Pedersen, 612 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, telephone 2585, and she will arrange an appointment.

Patients already registered at the clinic are to notify the State Clinic, telephone 218, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Mrs. Helen O. Munnich, secretary, pointed out that this requirement is different from the past because the early Fall date has caused a time factor and makes personal contact by State nurses and other health personnel impossible.

State nurses will visit as many persons as time permits, but patients are asked not to wait for a personal invitation.

They may contact the main office either by telephone or in person at 621 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, as soon as possible, so that registrations on clinic day can be minimized.

Parents with children under 12 with orthopedic defects who have not been examined at the clinic are to call Stroudsburg 218 and their needs will be taken care of in accordance with policies set up by the State and exercised in Monroe County under the direction of Dr. F. E. Chamberlain, chairman of the Orthopedic Division of the Department of Health, Harrisburg.

This is also true for patients referred to the clinic by family physicians.

Also during the past three months contract provisions reducing the work week to 35 hours have been won for 75,000 members, he said.

Dubinsky added that in all these cases "compensating increases" were won, so that workers have suffered no loss in earnings because of hour reduction.

The ILGWU president reported present union membership at 436,000, an increase of 5,000 since last Jan. 1.

McCarthy said the woman had access to classified material about Army food shipments abroad.

"This would give a good check on troop movements," he added.

Buyers Start Paying Sales Impost Today

Pennsylvania's new sales tax went into effect at midnight last night.

Today housewives, farmers, businessmen, children, and everyone else who buys something in Monroe County will probably pay the new tax.

Merchants and businessmen on the whole are ill-prepared to cope with the new tax, according to business leaders in the Stroudsburg.

It will mean a mass of paper work, long extra hours of bookkeeping, and a good deal of improvisation of "official" forms and blanks.

The latter is necessary because the State has failed to provide the forms needed, or even the forms needed for applying for forms.

There will be thousands of decisions made on what is taxable and what non-taxable, what is exempted, who must pay and for what.

Some idea of the confusion likely to follow in the wake of the first few weeks or months of the tax was evident from the questions of more than 150 businessmen, farmers, retailers, housewives, manufacturers, dealers, clothiers, grocers, who gathered at the Penn-Stroud Hotel to hear some of the answers of Sam M. Monatt, Stroudsburg CPA and tax consultant.

He was present at the urging of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association which sponsored the open meeting in the hope of getting some clarification of the numberless questions the new tax raises.

Monatt gave a resume of the entire sales tax and use tax law, reviewed many of the points published previously in The Daily Record. Reprints of a Daily Record story of Aug. 29 were distributed to those present. It listed taxable and non-taxable items at least specified by the Revenue Department.

Monatt's resume took 30 minutes. The question period following consumed an hour and a half. The questions asked most often dealt not with taxable or non-taxable items but with how the records must be maintained.

Monatt made clear that it's not only a sales tax but a use tax too.

If a storekeeper buys some shoes in New York and puts them into his store in Stroudsburg he'll have to pay a use tax about the same as the sales tax.

The housewife at the supermarket will have to wait while the clerks and cashiers sort out taxable items from non-taxable items in her basket.

Basically, the merchants heard last night, the new law aims at taxing every piece of tangible property sold in Pennsylvania.

The exceptions are primarily food, clothing and purchases of 10 cents or less.

The law specifies a one per cent tax on the dollar. Actually residents will be paying more in many instances, a tax of one cent on an 11-cent purchase is actually a tax of almost 10 per cent.

The shortage of urgently-needed forms was pointed up by the meeting.

One of the first needs is a registration form which will lead to the retailer getting his permanent registration number. It will be hard to obtain exemption when purchasing goods for resale. If the retailer doesn't have this registration number, yet the form for obtaining the number are not to be had in the county, "the tax sent here soon snipped up days ago."

One resourceful retailer has micrographed exemption certificates which he hopes will serve until he receives the proper form.

Most of the merchants at the meeting appeared to be determined to do the best they can in the face of inadequate supplies, preparation, instruction, explanation, but none were looking forward to the new way of doing business.

"The records are the records," that's the big headache.

Parolee Arrested On Charge Of Taking $500 From Wallet Belonging To Rose St. Man

An East Stroudsburg man who was paroled from Eastern Penitentiary three months ago was committed to Monroe County jail yesterday afternoon on charges of taking between $350 and $600.

Chief of Police Arthur Swink, who made the arrest, listed the man as Correll Smith, 42, of 32 Kistler St., East Stroudsburg.

Complaint was filed by Arthur Lee, rear of 24 Rose St., East Stroudsburg. Lee told police he met Smith Saturday night in a local tap room and showed him the money in his wallet. When the taproom closed, Lee said, he and Smith went to the Rose St. address and Smith remained overnight.

Lee told police he put the wallet under a dresser when retiring. Next morning, he said, the money and Smith both were gone. He reported the incident to Louis Carmella, East Stroudsburg police officer, about 7 a. m. Sunday.

After an investigation Smith was summoned to police headquarters yesterday and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Marshall Neyhart. He pleaded innocent and was sent to jail to await the September term of court. He was represented at the hearing by Russell Mervine, Stroudsburg attorney.

Chief Swink said Smith was convicted of two counts of burglary, larceny and a separate count of perjury and sentenced to concurrent terms of 2 1/2 to 6 years, and another term of 1 to 2 years on June 6, 1949. The arrest in 1949 followed a series of county-wide thefts for which Smith was tried. Chief Swink reported. He was arrested in Albuquerque, N. Mex.

Engineer John B. Aicher was slated to begin his work and go on the county payroll today.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor said yesterday that newly-purchased addressograph equipment has not yet been delivered, and some map-making order have not been received.

Until these supplies arrive, start of work on the assessment record system will be delayed, Taylor said.

It appears that the county's new permanent record assessment system won't be started on Sept. 1 after all. The commissioners' office yesterday said necessary supplies haven't yet been received.

Realtor To Appeal $58 Fine, Claims Properties Sold

An Easton realtor and his wife Saturday were fined for permitting unsanitary conditions to exist at two Easton properties, though they claimed they had sold the properties to residents in the Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lewis said they would appeal from the $58 fine because that sold the house at 1002 W. Nesquehoning St. to George N. Scobie Sr. and Florence E. Scobie, Stroudsburg, in August, 1951, and the property at 122 Orchard St. to Frank and Martha H. Mikowski, East Stroudsburg, in July 1952.

Lewis said both properties have been rented by the present owners and the rentals are paid to him by the tenants to retire the indebtedness on the properties.

Lewis agreed that he and his wife are the owners of record, but said the later transfers were not recorded.

Dates Fixed For Signing New Electors

Traveling registrars will sit at 12 different places in the county this month to register residents for voting at the Nov. 3 general election.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor will tour the county today to tack up notices of the dates and places at such places as postoffices, general stores, and similar meeting places.

In addition to the dates of the special registrations, voters may register at the commissioners' office in the Courthouse daily from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to noon.

Last day to register is Sept. 28. The commissioners said yesterday that Stroudsburg Third Ward voters will ballot at the Indian Queen Hotel, Stroudsburg, in November. The space for voting was donated by Gerald P. O'Neill, operator. Third Ward residents used to vote at the YMCA, which is now being rebuilt.

Yesterday also marked the testing of voting machines. Tools were broken out and one of the machines in the Courthouse underwent a routine testing and setting-up. The machines will be used for demonstration purposes later.

Traveling registrars will sit according to the following schedule this month: registration period will be from 6 to 9 p. m. at each place.

Kresgeville and Middle Stroud election houses, Sept. 8; Toxhamna election house and Fawcett Lake fire house, Sept. 10; Saylorsburg Lake House and Broadheads election house, Sept. 11; Mt. Pleasant and Tannerville school houses, Sept. 15; Mountainhome and Middle Smithfield election houses, Sept. 17; East Stroudsburg Third Ward election house, Sept. 23; and the county courthouse, on Sept. 25.

Special registration hours at the court house will also be held on Sept. 26 from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Dr. Kinsell, now director of biology of metabolism at Highland County Hospital, Oakland, Cal., in 1951 wrote a paper widely used by practicing physicians called "Annals of Internal Medicine."

His work is cited in the current article. "Hopedful News About Hormones," condensed from "Today's Health," which reviews the work of internal medicine. It cites the record of his work with rheumatoid arthritis, with 50 per cent restored to full health in two years.

Clearview Principal Visits English Schools; Plans For Exchange Of Pupil's Letters

Rev. Harding, principal of the Clearview School, found more similarity than differences when he visited comparable schools in England during the Summer visit which he and his wife and their young son, Stephen, made to Europe.

While the chief purpose of their trip was to visit Mrs. Harding's parents near Manchester in England, they still used the opportunity to visit many of the schools during their trip. English schools, like everything else in England, have made enormous strides in the five years since they last visited there, they found.

They emphasized academic subjects at a younger age. They are still a little short of material, due to the war, and have their problems with the reactionary group which resists any change in the established system.

However, he found discipline much the same as in local schools with the teachers in complete control but allowing for self-expression. There seemed little doctrinal policy between teachers and headmasters, and a great deal of cooperation.

A little international cooperation in a practical language project will result from the Harding's visit. He has arranged for an exchange of letters among the children in comparable grades at Clearview and two elementary schools near Manchester. They brought back pictures of the individual grades so that the local children can see the children to whom they will write.

In studying the faculties of English schools, Mr. Harding found that fewer of them had bachelor's degrees than teachers in Monroe County although the trend is toward demanding higher degrees. Of course, he pointed out, the English bachelor's degree is much more difficult to attain.

It was in the field of higher education in general that he found the greatest differences between schools in the two communities. In England, very stiff competitive examinations are given all children at the age of 11, and only a proportion of the very highest-ranking students are allowed to go on to the grammar school, where academic subjects compose the entire curriculum.

The others go to secondary modern schools which emphasize vocational education and complete their education at the age of 15. The importance of these competitive examinations sometimes reduces both parents and children to hysterics, he said.

In comparing salaries for English and American teachers, he found that the starting salary for a man was 420 pounds, or roughly $1,200; for women 368 pounds or about $1,000. The maximum after 14 years for men is about $2,000 and for women after 11 years about $1,600. However, the cost of living is less especially in rents and the living standards demanded of teachers, although food is almost as expensive. These salaries are above the average wage of the English worker.

A great many field trips have been incorporated into the elementary curriculum, they discovered. One school group even toured Europe for several weeks. The Hardings did some touring of their own during their visit. With Mrs. Harding's parents they toured England, Scotland and Wales by automobile making it possible to visit many out-of-the-way sections.

Leaving Stephen with his grandparents, the Hardings also spent some time on the continent. Conditions in Paris had not improved, they discovered, to any comparable degree.

However, they thoroughly enjoyed their whole trip. Stephen enjoyed his grandparents, and they are all looking forward to the time when Mrs. Harding's parents will pay a return visit to this country in about two years. They were amazed at how tremendously improved everything seems to be. The bomb damage now is almost entirely repaired and flowers are growing where they had found bomb craters before. While there is still some rationing, food is much more plentiful, business seems thriving, and there seems to be a lot more private enterprise at work.

Modern buildings, comparing favorably with the finest school plants in this country, have been erected since last they visited there. Visiting the schools in England was made more interesting for Mr. Harding by the fact that they were still in session. The English school term runs until July 15 and resumes on September 2.

Although they have vacations at Easter and Christmas, the English school term is 200 days a year compared with Monroe County's 180 days. In the course of ten years, that amounts to an extra year of school, he pointed out, and consequently the children are more advanced in subject matter at the end of their elementary schooling.

He also found that the schools had incorporated many of the modern ideas and philosophy of education into their program, and while they might lack a little of the variety of the American schools, they gave an excellent background education.

Whole Danish Village Marks Parents' Golden Anniversary; Stabenows There For Party

Six candles burned in the window of every house in the Danish village where Georg Stabenow's parents were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary this Summer in their honor, and the sight of the thousands of candles illuminating the whole village is one which the Stabenow family, of 125 Ananook St., East Stroudsburg, will remember with pleasure for years.

Georg had not been home since 1929 and his parents had never met his wife or seen their three children: Eric, 10; Carl, 8; and Karen, 5. The whole family flew over for the golden wedding anniversary celebration, and remained for a two months visit to Denmark, Sweden, Germany and Switzerland.

The Stabenows had a wonderful time on the rest of their trip, too, which included a visit to Mrs. Stabenow's relatives in Sweden.

They found Sweden and Switzerland the most prosperous and thriving of the countries they visited. As soon as they crossed the borders they could sense this prosperity untouched by war. The people were better dressed, food was plentiful and not as high-priced.

In Germany they found a great deal of war damage but people working most industriously and with no bitterness toward Americans, and all agreed that a United Europe was the only hope for peace.

The Stabenows found several surprises, too, on their trip. They had hoped that the children would learn to speak Swedish during their stay but in both Denmark and in Sweden the children learn English early in their school life and were so delighted to have American cousins to talk to with that they talked nothing but English.

Another surprise was the fact that a clipping from the Daily Record about their proposed trip arrived in Denmark before them. Natives of Denmark living on a farm in Monroe County had seen the story and sent it to Aabenraa, Denmark, the town nearest their family's village. They are now anxious to discover who the local people might have been.

The anniversary itself was the high point of their trip. It began the evening before when the neighbors gathered to bedeck the door with garlands and to write "Good Luck" in golden letters. At 8 o'clock the anniversary morning, about fifteen children from the school nearby came to serenade the anniversary couple.

About 60 friends and neighbors congregated in the morning and spent the whole morning, drinking coffee, wine and eating cakes and visiting.

At 5:30, there was an anniversary celebration in the 1,000-year-old church. There with the immediate families, 54 strong, seated in the chancel, the anniversary couple walked down the aisle to be greeted by the minister and to be presented with the Bible from which he had read the text of his sermon.

About 7:30 with their close relatives, an anniversary dinner was held at the hotel in town, and afterward five cars awaited them to take them on a tour of the village to see the candles burning in every window in their honor. The hotel is in the valley and the roads winding up through the hills, all illuminated by candles, was a breathtaking sight, they reported.

Meeting Postponed

The Dames of Malta, who planned to meet this Wednesday night, have been forced to change their meeting date. Instead it will be held on the original meeting date, Labor Day night. Officers will be nominated at that meeting.

Pauline Marsh of our candy department gave us all a good lesson in how to win friends and influence people this past Saturday. One of our visitors happened to be a gentleman in quest of a humorous prize for a guest at his hotel who had won every shuffleboard contest of the season. Salespeople throughout the store suggested various items of merchandise, but nothing quite appealed until Pauline said, "Why not a box of Wheaties? You know 'Breakfast of Champions'."

The customer was delighted with the idea, rushed across the street to pick up a box, and back to Wyckoff's to have it gift wrapped. He was grinning from ear to ear as he left, and we know he wasn't kidding when he said he'd return. Like MacArthur, he will. We'll be pleased to see him too, because a store is like a person—it can never have too many friends!

Edna Brockman, who delights in seeing a person all at sea, providing she sold him the ticket, is already suggesting I begin saving my pennies for a trip to Europe. To prove that it can be done on a budget, she shows me some statistics from Travel Trade which emphasize that, for the first quarter of 1953, there were three times as many housewives traveling abroad as there were executives; five times as many clerks and secretaries as bankers and brokers and eight times as many laborers as manufacturers.

Now let me see—if I began saving fifty cents a week, would I still be young enough to get a kick out of Paris? As for you lucky ones who needn't save, why not call the Travel Bureau today?

If you are a miss who longs to wear mink, you may be interested in the new earrings just arrived in our jewelry department. Hoops of that precious fur, believe it or not! If it's ermine you crave, there's a pin of it fashioned with eyes and resembling a kitten. Since these really aren't jewels, and the word "accessories" doesn't tell the full story, maybe they should be referred to as "women's fun-nishings." . . . Joseph's coat of many colors probably inspired the new line of washable corduroy dusters which has just arrived from the style house of Evelyn Pearson. The Evelyn Pearson name is one to be reckoned with, because the designers working under this label are as keen as a sharp-edged blade, and the finished product is handsomely styled and well made. Tail girls are delighted too with the fact that these robes are amply cut — no worrying about the length. The latest shipment, which I spied yesterday in the receiving room waiting to be ticketed, is in washable corduroy. The background is cream, and boasts a rainbow of stripes, purple predominating. For $16.95 you can be an excitingly glamorous new Personality, pretty as a prison . . . You wouldn't guess it to look at her, but Helen Greiner — back from vacation — tells me she is now a Grandmother for the eighth time, by courtesy of her daughter in Texas. All good wishes to the new arrival. That house in our children's department is just waiting to give a little Texas on a real ride across the range!

Does this weather make you dream of a white Christmas? Mmmmm! So do the new printed tablecloths in Hattie Walters' department, with the pine cones and sprigs of pine. Hattie says they're perfect for fall and winter use—not just at the holidays. She's right too. But right now, wouldn't it be wonderful to blink one's eye, and find snow on the ground, and a few icicles dangling from the eaves? I'd even settle for two days of rain or a few ice cubes. What about you?

Large Crowds At Meetings

Moving into the third week of evangelism and healing meetings at the Cathedral tent, Lennox St., South Stroudsburg, Evangelist L. C. Robie, last night said delegations from many sections will be added to local people.

Services start at 7:30 p.m. every night except Monday.

Sunday night's service attracted a large audience.

Charles Robie, son of the evangelist, conducted a special song service. His eldest son, Robert, Nyack, N. Y., was guest soloist.

Singing included a chorus of "I Am Walking With Jesus," written by Mr. Robie several years ago.

Delegations were present from Philadelphia, Hamilton, Bangor, Easton, Allentown and Cresco.

Mr. Robie emphasized that those who receive the Lord Jesus Christ receive salvation from sin, defeat, fear and frustration. Starting with the Devil's advice man has tried to get to Heaven and still go on sinful ways, he said. Others have tried the same thing for years, but none has succeeded, he warned.

Troy, N.Y., who fell down the stairs while visiting at the Bedford home, was doing well. She will remain in the General Hospital for a few days.

The night blooming cereus owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard opened Sunday night. A group of neighbors and friends watching the plant were able to see the petals open.

By 10 it was possible to see the waxen white "star of Bethlehem" and the yellow "cradle and babe" formed in the corolla. The bloom closed by morning. There is another bud on the plant which may open in two weeks. The cereus blooms only once a year and the waxen flowers hang from the edge of the leaf by a rubbery stem.

What are you doing, mister?

Putting a telephone cable under ground.

What's a telephone cable?

It's a lot of wires in one.

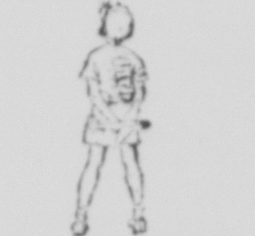

But aren't those a lot of wires, too?

They'll be taken down when the cable's in.

Why?

Because this cable will carry more messages than all those wires put together. Gives less trouble, too. Storms can't get at it.

That's neat. Did you think up the idea?

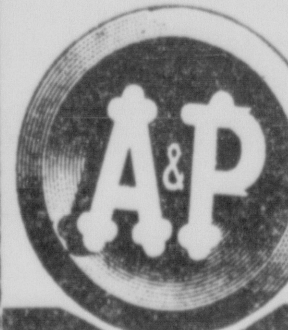

No, Son. But telephone people are always trying to find better ways to do things.

Why?

Better ways to do things help us give people better telephone service and keep costs down.

Mathews Has Fence Trouble On Home Field

Milwaukee CP — There was a little second guessing in these parts yesterday about moving the fences at Milwaukee County Stadium.

Actually, people are asking why the fences weren't moved when the chance was available early in the season. This was after Frankie Baumholtz of the Chicago Cubs crashed into the low rightfield barrier chasing a fly ball in the Milwaukee Braves' home park.

Eddie Mathews' home run spree Sunday at Pittsburgh is what stirred up the talk. Young Eddie eluded three off Pirate pitching in the doubleheader, giving him a new National League mark of 28 homers on the road, but showing arithmetically that he's belted only 15 on his home premises.

"If we'd been playing at Boston this year," a Braves' spokesman commented yesterday, "Eddie would be up in the middle 50s."

He might have at that, since home run sluggers normally do their best work on familiar grounds, although the measurements down the rightfield foul lines at the two parks are almost identical—320 at the stadium, 319 at old Braves' Field—and Mathews is a left-handed pullhitter.

Difference
The difference is that out at the five million dollar stadium the fence drops away sharply—and abruptly to 376 feet in a matter of something like 50 feet. At Boston it doesn't. That means it takes a pretty solid blast to reach the stadium bullpen except exactly along the line.

After Baumholtz ran into the fence a furore was raised. The fence was too low. It's three feet high, and somebody was going to get hurt. It ought to be raised—and the sharp bulge ought to be ironed out in both fields, too.

The Braves' management held a conference. The Braves' players were consulted.

"The players have decided they want the fences left as they are."

So the abrupt curves which make home runs hard to get still are there. And Mathews hits better on the road than before the home folks.

Mother Dies In Fire With Five Children

Pittsburgh, (AP) — A mother and her five young children burned to death early yesterday in a fire which may have started from a child playing with matches in his nearby Plum Twp. home.

Paul Krizanich, 41, father and husband, was the only member of the family to escape death. He suffered cuts and burns in a hopeless attempt to rescue his family.

The blaze in the 5-year-old two-story frame house cost the lives of Mrs. Hattie Deer Krizanich, 36, and these children: Janet Lee, 10; Paul Jr., 8; Larry Evin, 5; Karl Edward, 2; and Shirley Mae, 3 weeks.

Krizanich, taken to Pittsburgh for questioning by Allegheny County detectives after treatment of his injuries, said, "We can never be sure what caused the fire."

"Paul had a bad habit of playing with matches. He also was in the habit of getting up early," Krizanich said. "He wasn't up when I came downstairs this morning and I don't know if he got up later."

"I've been out of regular work for two years and I got up early to look for a job. I walked out of the house and was in the rear of the lot for about half an hour."

"I heard children crying but thought they were the neighbors. Everything was quiet when I left the house."

"When I returned, the whole back of the house was a mass of flames. I ran in the house but couldn't get upstairs. Flames filled the stairway and I couldn't breathe for the clouds of black smoke."

Laniel Moves For Cuts In French Prices

Paris, (AP) — Faced with mounting threats for higher wages and the threat of further strikes this fall, the government of Premier Joseph Laniel yesterday started a determined effort to bring down prices to head off the trouble.

The first move came with an agreement with the butchers' federation. The butchers agreed to cut 10 per cent off the prices of steaks and stew meat starting next week.

Cheaper cuts of steak now are about $1.10 a pound.

Efforts are now being made to extend the price cuts to coffee, cooking oil, soap, margarine, clothing, linen, shoes, and household cleaning items. A 10 per cent reduction in all lines is the target, but it is admitted that the cut may not be more than five per cent on some items.

By forcing down prices, the government hopes to increase the purchasing power of consumers and reduce the demands for wage increases. It may also help to take the sting out of union accusations that Laniel's government is weighted for the money classes and intends to do nothing for the workers. Much sentiment of this nature was expressed during the recent disastrous strike wave.

Young Drivers To Pay More For Insurance

Harrisburg, (AP) — Pennsylvania's young drivers may pay nearly triple what their parents spend on automobile liability insurance under a new rate schedule agreed to by the nation's leading insurance companies.

Some 213 companies have joined in approving the plan, which was announced Sunday in New York by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau.

Artemus C. Leslie, Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner, said the new rates had not been filed yet with his department. The underwriters said the new schedule would go into effect as soon as they are filed with state authorities.

The young people are broken down into three groups, instead of in old systems where all young people were carried in a single group. The three groups include those under 25 living at home, childless married couples under 25 and young drivers with no family connection.

The companies have agreed to a 4 per cent reduction for the first group, but the third group will show a heavy increase. In the New York area they will pay $310 for the same insurance adults can buy for $125.

In Pennsylvania the rates will be adjusted to the number of young people in that category involved in accidents compared to the total number of accidents.

The new schedules affect adult drivers by taking into account their use of cars going to and from work. The lowest rates will apply to those who use their cars solely for pleasure driving.

Mother Dies In Fire With Five Children

Pittsburgh, (AP) — A mother and her five young children burned to death early yesterday in a fire which may have started from a child playing with matches in his nearby Plum Twp. home.

Paul Krizanich, 41, father and husband, was the only member of the family to escape death. He suffered cuts and burns in a hope- less attempt to rescue his family.

The blaze in the 5-year-old two-story frame house cost the lives of Mrs. Hattie Deer Krizanich, 36, and these children: Janet Lee, 10; Paul Jr., 8; Larry Edwin, 5; Karl Edward, 2, and Shirley Mae, 3 weeks.

Krizanich, taken to Pittsburgh for questioning by Allegheny County detectives after treatment of his injuries, said, "We can never be sure what caused the fire."

"Paul had a bad habit of playing with matches. He also was in the habit of getting up early," Krizanich said. "He wasn't up when I came downstairs this morning and I don't know if he got up later."

"I've been out of regular work for two years and I got up early to look for a job. I walked out of the house and was in the rear of the lot for about half an hour."

"I heard children crying but thought they were the neighbors. Everything was quiet when I left the house."

"When I returned, the whole back of the house was a mass of flames. I ran in the house but couldn't get upstairs. Flames filled the stairway and I couldn't breathe for the clouds of black smoke."

Laniel Moves For Cuts In French Prices

Paris, (AP) — Faced with mounting demands for higher wages and the threat of further strikes this fall, the government of Premier Joseph Laniel yesterday started a determined effort to bring down prices to head off the trouble.

The first move came with an agreement with the butchers' feder- ation. The butchers agreed to ap- prox 10 per cent off the prices of steaks and stew meat starting next week.

Cheaper cuts of steak now are about $1.10 a pound.

Efforts are now being made to extend the price cuts to coffee, cooking oil, soap, margarine, cloth- ing, linen, shoes, and household cleaning items. A 10 per cent re- duction in all lines is the target, but it is admitted that the cut may not be more than five per cent on some items.

By forcing down prices, the govern- ment hopes to increase the pur- chasing power of consumers and reduce the demands for wage in- creases. It may also help to take the sting out of union accusations that Laniel's government is weighted for the moneyed classes and intends to do nothing for the workers. Much sentiment of this nature was expressed during the recent disastrous strike wave.

Young Drivers To Pay More For Insurance

Harrisburg, (AP) — Pennsylvania's young drivers may pay nearly triple what their parents spend on automobile liability insurance under a new rate schedule agreed to by the nation's leading insurance companies.

Some 213 companies have joined in approving the plan, which was announced Sunday in New York by the National Bureau of Casual- ty Underwriters and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau.

Artemus C. Leslie, Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner, said the new rates had not been filed yet with his department. The under- writers said the new schedule would go into effect as soon as they are filed with state authori- ties.

The young people are broken down into three groups, instead of in old systems where all young people were carried in a single group. The three groups include those under 25 living at home, childless married couples under 25 and young drivers with no family control.

The companies have agreed to a 1 per cent reduction for the first group, but the third group will show a heavy increase. In the New York area they will pay $10 for the same insurance adults can pay for $125.

In Pennsylvania the rates will be adjusted to the number of young people in that category in- volved in accidents compared to the total number of accidents.

The new schedules affect adult drivers by taking into account their use of cars going to and from work. The lowest rates will apply to those who use their cars solely for pleasure driving.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Ford brings you fine-car Power Steering at a new low price!

Now you can have America's newest, most improved power steering—Ford Master-Guide—for $40 less than any other power steering in the low-price field.

Yes, you're reading right! Ford has added a brand new "Worth More" to its long list of fine-car features... Ford Master-Guide—the newest and finest in power steering... a system exclusive in Ford's field!

You're going to love this new kind of steering! A finger turns the wheel even when the car's standing still. Imagine how helpful this can be whenever you're tightly parked! Yet on the road Ford Master-Guide, unlike some systems, gives you the same natural "feel" you'd have without power steering. Master-Guide is safer, too. It takes hold only when needed. Try Ford Master-Guide today!

Handling and parking's a pushover! With the car standing still, you can "dial" the steering wheel with one finger... Master-Guide supplies the "muscle" for you! Of course, Fords have always been easy to handle, steer and park. But with Master-Guide "muscling in" when you need it, you use up to 75% less effort!

See it... Value Check it... Test Drive it today!

NO RADICAL CHANGE IN DRIVING HABITS

You get the same kind of "feel" you get with ordinary steering systems, so there's no need to learn how to drive all over again with Ford Master-Guide. This natural feel comes mainly from having the force applied close to the front wheels. Steering ratio doesn't change; you always have complete control.

SO SIMPLE... SO SAFE!

Master-Guide lets you turn with ease, steer as you're used to. Driving on "shoulders" and rutted roads is even safer. And should the hydraulic system ever lose its power (which is highly unlikely due to Ford's simple design), the conventional steering system remains operative as in cars without power steering.
